DESIGN-BASED LEARNING

Igniting Creative Thinking to Teach K-12 Common Core Standards with Performance-Based Assessment

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

The Summer Institute for Teachers is an intensive five-day interactive experience based on the proven and award-winning Doreen Nelson Method of Design-Based Learning (DBL).

Doreen Nelson's DBL method provides tools and techniques for teaching students to become creative and critical thinkers with the ability to apply essential questions as they learn to use and reuse information across the K-12 curriculum. This method is never restricted by the changing world of content standards.

Regardless of your grade level, subject or need for integrating the curriculum, DBL can make a dramatic difference in your classroom. Engaging students to learn through this hands-on methodology leads to improved attendance, fewer discipline problems and higher scores on Performance Tasks and Common Core Assessments.

This five-day institute provides three semester units of credit* and is open to K-12 educators, principals, administrators, college instructors and after-school program directors and staff. Scholarships are available.

* Units are transferable to the M.A. Degree Program (45 units) or the Certificate Program (20 units) in Design-Based Learning at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona. Please check with your school district regarding transferability of units/salary points.

HOW DBL WORKS

Educator Doreen Nelson's DBL method "sneaks up on learning" by giving teachers a specific series of steps that are built around essential questions described in the standard K-12 curriculum content. It activates students' innate creativity and higher-level thinking skills through a quickly made miniature model of a city, designed and built by students. This provides a fun, interactive and authentic experience with practice in seeking and solving problems and teaches students to become accountable for learning.

A teacher using DBL challenges students to create "never-before-seen" solutions to content-related problems.

AWARD-WINNING PROGRAM

Founded in 2002, ArtCenter's Summer Institute for Teachers received the 2006 Award of Merit in K-12 Architectural Education from the American Architectural Foundation.

DBL was developed by Doreen Nelson, a professor at both ArtCenter College of Design and California State Polytechnic University, Pomona. Nelson founded the DBL M.A. program at Cal Poly in 1995 and the DBL Certificate Program in 2010. Her archive is housed at the UCLA Library Special Collections where an exhibition of her work was held from October 2017 to January 2018.

Nelson leads the Summer Institute for Teachers with Jennifer Sorbara, coordinator of a DBL multi-disciplinary high school program in Walnut Valley Unified School District.

HANDS-ON

ACTIVITIES ENHANCE STUDENT PERFORMANCE

A high school biology teacher wanting to teach genetics might have students build a miniature city inhabited by 3D creatures that are assigned hereditary traits. The students then study inheritance patterns and learn to make predictions. This practice of inquiry mirrors the work of geneticists who explore gene behavior.

A third grade teacher wanting to teach the mathematical practice of perseverance and problem solving despite initial mistakes might also have students build a miniature city. Solving problems related to what they build leads to reflection on the changes made. As they calculate how many people can fit in their structure, find various routes to extend or decrease travel time, and adjust the square footage of their building, they discover multiple paths to solve a problem and learn the validity of revision.

Building roughly made 3D designs to solve problems based on content objectives described in the required curriculum provides conceptual knowledge that leads students to understand academic material. Using what they make gives students a personal context for learning how to research, analyze and refine their ideas. They learn how to test their thinking through both informal conversations and formal presentations. Civics, government, leadership abilities, communication skills and writing facility are central to the methodology.

"I WAS TRANSFORMED AND IN TURN HAVE TRANSFORMED MY STUDENTS."

DAAPHNE CHASE
Teacher, Wilson Elementary School SGUSD

"I WAS THE TYPE OF STUDENT WHO FOUND IT IMPOSSIBLE TO KEEP SIMPLE EYE CONTACT, AND I SILENCED MY VOICE WHEN THE CLASS NEEDED DIVERSE PERSPECTIVES. NOW, I AM THE STUDENT WHO IS WILLING TO SING IN FRONT OF A STUDENT BODY OF OVER 6,000 PEOPLE."

MADELEINE SKINNER
Former student, DBL Academic Design Program, Walnut High School, WVUSD

ALL GRADE LEVELS, ALL SUBJECTS, ALL TYPES OF STUDENTS

At the Summer Institute for Teachers, you'll learn specific steps you can immediately use to inspire, engage and energize your students —time-tested techniques that develop creative thinking, enhanced reasoning and problem-solving skills as well as tools for Performance-Based Assessment. DBL is accessible to various types of learners, including at-risk, gifted, ADD and ADHD students. ELL students' oral and written communication skills are enhanced through their engagement in the design challenges.

FUN, INTERACTIVE EXPERIENCE

The five-day Summer Institute for Teachers consists of participatory hands-on design activities that include the building and governing of a miniature city "based on a real location." You will be able to take this city building experience into your classroom to use as a tool to stimulate creativity, teach subject matter and improve overall student performance.

SUPPLEMENT YOUR CURRENT TEACHING METHODS

DBL is not intended to replace lessons you're using now. Rather, it gives you a powerful methodology for presenting an integrated curriculum to meet the required Content and Common Core Standards.

TEACHERS TEACH TEACHERS

The faculty of the Summer Institute for Teachers includes public school educators who have earned a master's degree in DBL from California State Polytechnic University, Pomona and who have successfully put this innovative approach to work in their own K-12 classrooms.

NO SPECIAL SKILLS OR EQUIPMENT REQUIRED

A background in art or design is not necessary. DBL doesn't require expensive materials. Paper, pencils, glue and recycled materials are all you need. As a result, DBL programs are unaffected by textbook changes and budget reductions.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND DISCOUNTS

Several full-tuition scholarships and teacher-pair discounts are available. Teachers who complete the Summer Institute for Teachers' five-day program can earn three semester units of credit. This course is transferable to the DBL M.A. program at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.
